

Terms & Conditions

These terms and conditions apply to goods and services supplied to you – including your use of www.theirishegg.com (“our Website”) – by us, Seàn O’Farrell (“The Irish Egg”) (“us”, “we”, “our”) who operate The Irish Egg BBQ School.

You should read, and ensure persons that you book into a cooking class are aware of and read, these Terms & Conditions carefully before requesting our goods and services (e.g. booking a cooking class, or buying a voucher) as they set out your rights and the conditions on which we make those goods and services available to you. By requesting or using our goods and services, or otherwise indicating your consent, you agree to enter into a contract with us and be bound by these Terms & Conditions. Please carefully check the details of any order and correct any errors before you place it.

You should also read, and ensure persons that you book into a cooking class are aware of and read, our Privacy Policy and Cookies Policy (to find out what kind of information we collect about you, how we use and safeguard such information and your rights and choices in relation to this). If you have any questions, please get in touch with us as described below under the ‘Contact us’ heading.

By booking a cookery class with THE IRISH EGG BBQ SCHOOL, you agree that:

1. You have permission to act on another person’s behalf when you provide their personal information to us, and register them for a cooking class, and that you and any other persons registered for the cooking class have read and understood our Privacy Policy.
2. You will arrive at least 10 minutes ahead of the scheduled start time of your class. Due to the importance of starting and continuing the class on time for all participants, and conducting a detailed health and safety briefing at the beginning of the class, we cannot allow persons who arrive after the scheduled start time to attend their scheduled cooking class. No refunds will be given to late arrivals as per our cancellation and rescheduling policy below.
3. You will wear practical clothing, including flat shoes that cover your toes, a minimal amount of jewellery and hair tied back where necessary.
4. You will not attend if you have been unwell within the 48 hours before your class. This is to protect all of our customers and staff as illnesses can be spread through food and close contact. Please note that our cancellation and rescheduling policy (below) will still apply if you are unwell as per those terms and conditions below, therefore, we suggest that you send someone in your place (as explained at paragraph 16 below).
5. You may be refused admission or asked to leave a class if we suspect that you are under the influence of alcohol or an illicit substance, are unwell or are engaging in inappropriate behaviour. No refunds or rescheduling will be offered in those circumstances.
6. You will follow all our hygiene and safety instructions and procedures. You acknowledge, however, that whilst we will suggest health and safety measures, it is impossible for us to safeguard your health and safety at all times. You understand and agree that you are ultimately responsible for your own health and safety and that there is an element of risk inherent in participating in a cooking class.

7. You alone are responsible to ensure ingredients used in a cooking class are suitable for your own health needs. Allergen information on all products used in a cooking class is displayed at the cooking school.
8. Following your class, you will follow all our instructions for the preparation, transportation, storage, reheating, cooking and consumption of meals.
9. You and your guests may be photographed and/or filmed during your class. ("The Irish Egg" may use your name and any photographs and/or recordings featuring you, and may cut, edit and adapt the same as necessary, in the cookery school, on our Website, on social media channels associated with and operated by The Irish Egg BBQ school, or in our marketing and promotions. If you want further information about how we use your personal data, please refer to our Privacy Policy.
10. You will indemnify and hold us and our employees harmless from all claims, damages, liabilities and causes of action which may arise as a result of:
  11. your preparation, storage, re-heating and consumption of food after your class;
  12. any loss of personal property whilst on our premises;
  13. any injuries or damages you sustain or, or that your guest or anyone affiliated with or connected with you, may sustain in connection with or resulting directly or indirectly from your or your guest's, or affiliated or connected person's, involvement in our cooking classes.
14. Our liability to you shall not exceed the total price charged for any classes you have paid for.
15. Nothing in these terms and conditions excludes our liability to you for personal injury or death caused by our negligence or any other losses which cannot be excluded or limited by applicable law (such as relating to the protection of your personal information)
16. Children aged 14 and over may attend a cooking class. They must always be accompanied, supervised and assisted by a paying adult when attending a cooking class. They must be able to reach and work at the height of a standard kitchen surface (900mm) without the use of a stool or other object to raise their height. In order to avoid disappointment please check the height of all children you will be bringing to our cooking class. Persons aged 15 – 17 years are able to attend an adult class but must be accompanied by a paying adult. We do not permit children under the age of 14 to attend cooking classes.
17. Only paying guests are permitted to be on the cookery school premises whilst classes are in progress.
18. Alcohol will only be served to those who are 18 and over. Proof of age will be required for all persons that attend our adult classes. You must consume any alcohol offered responsibly. You must ensure that any persons under 18 attending with you do not consume alcohol.
19. Any participant in a cooking class is welcome to send another person in their place as long as you inform us by calling or emailing us (as described below under the 'Contact us' heading) at least 1 business day prior to the class of that person's name, allergies, dietary requirements and any other special requirements (for example, access needs), and that person has read and consented to these Terms and Conditions and our Privacy Policy.

20. Nothing in these terms and conditions is intended to affect your legal rights under the Consumer Rights Act 2015.

2. If something unforeseen comes up or you are unwell and you cannot provide 7 days notice or more, then we reserve the right to charge a 50% rescheduling fee.
3. We are not able to reschedule/cancel a lesson within 48 hours notice.

Bookings and cancellations for private group events:

2. Payment in full is required at the time of booking. Payment may be made via credit/debit card, bank transfer or by BACS only.
3. If you reduce the number of participants – subject to the minimum private group charge amount mentioned above which must be paid and cannot be refunded – our refund policy is as follows:

  - c. If you give us less than 4 weeks notice we are unable to offer any refunds.
5. You may request to increase the number of participants by contacting us by email hello@theirishegg.com or phone at least 2 weeks prior to the booking date, in which case we will do our best to accommodate you, however any increase to the class size is entirely at our discretion. In the event that we agree to increase the number of participants to the maximum amount of 12 people, you must pay the additional cost per participant immediately.

6. Final numbers and dietary requirements for your class must be confirmed no later than 2 weeks prior to the start time of the cookery class in order to give us enough time to pre-order the necessary ingredients, staff and planning.

Terms and conditions for products purchased in conjunction with cooking classes

1. On the day of the class, you will be offered a selection of products including merchandise, sauces and rubs to purchase at an additional cost.
2. These products will be provided to you at the cooking class you have booked.
